DEEP CLEANING A LOCAL LEARNING INSTITUTION'S BARN

Not all cleaning jobs are created equal, and some require extra elbow grease, like the recent deep clean we performed at a local learning institution's barn. After being left unused for some time, the barn had become home to more than just farm equipment—wildlife had taken up residence, leaving behind nests and debris throughout the space.

Luckily, Kelly Cleaning was on the job! Our expert technicians meticulously removed unwanted equipment, responsibly relocated any critters, and performed a full deep clean. We vacuumed, sanitized, and scrubbed...

every surface, from the corners and edges to the walls, lights, and skylights. Every piece of equipment received a thorough cleaning, including the barn's trusty tractor, which left our hands gleaming like it had just rolled off the showroom floor!

If your space—whether a barn, warehouse, or office—needs a top-to-bottom refresh, give Kelly Cleaning a call at (805) 644-5308 or email us at KellyCleaning@KellyClean.net.

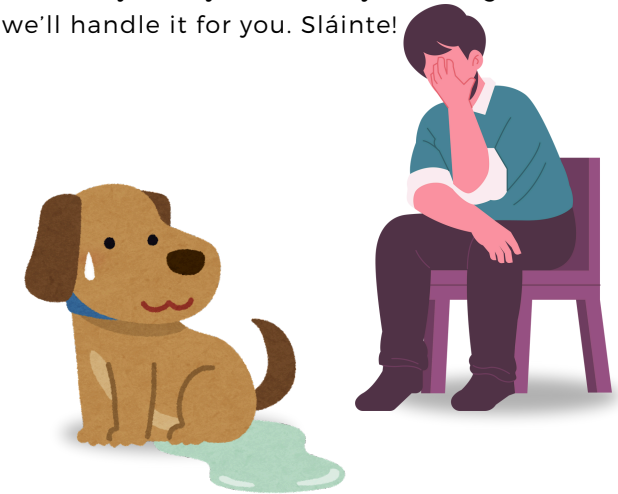

Dia Dhuit (Jee-ah ghwitch) = Hello!

Dia Dhuit, lads and lasses top o' the mornin' to ya! Ah, pet lovers, we've all been there—ye clean up a wee accident, only to have the odor come sneaking back like a mischievous leprechaun. Worry not, for I, Sierge, your Cleaning Concierge, have the perfect solution!

- Step 1: Blot up as much of the urine as possible using paper towels or an old rag.
- Step 2: Mix equal parts white vinegar and water, then spray generously over the affected area.
- Step 3: Let it sit for 10 minutes before blotting dry.
- Step 4: Sprinkle a bit of baking soda over the spot and leave it for a few hours before vacuuming up.

If the odor persists like an uninvited guest, it's time for the big guns! Kelly Cleaning's Goolie Gobbler enzymatic cleaner quite literally devours the bacteria causing the odor, leaving your home smelling fresh once more. If DIY isn't your style, call Kelly Cleaning, and we'll handle it for you. Sláinte!
