SOOT TO SPARKLE: RESTORING FIRE-DAMAGED TILE IN SANTA PAULA

When a Santa Paula family called us about their shower, they weren't expecting good news. Their beautiful Spanish-style home had suffered fire and smoke damage, and the shower tile — once a bright, classic white — had been left dull, gray, and streaked with soot. The grout lines, in particular, had absorbed the worst of it, holding onto smoke residue that regular scrubbing simply couldn't touch.

That's because smoke damage isn't just surface dirt. Soot particles are microscopic and acidic, and porous grout acts almost like a sponge — pulling that residue deep into its texture instead of letting it sit on top where it's... → to wipe away. The longer it sits, the more it stains, and the more it can affect indoor air quality every time that bathroom gets warm and steamy.

Our technicians brought in one of the newest tools in our fleet: a heavy-duty, state-of-the-art steamer built specifically for deep tile and grout restoration. Paired with Kelly-branded cleaning products formulated to break down smoke and soot without damaging tile or grout, the team worked section by section, lifting years – and in this case, a fire's worth – of embedded grime out of every line.

The result speaks for itself: grout that was once gray and smoke-stained came back bright white and clean, and the whole shower looked (and felt) brand new again.

It's a great reminder that fire and smoke damage doesn't stop at what you can see. If your home has been through a fire, smoke exposure, or even just years of grout buildup that regular cleaning can't touch, give Kelly Cleaning a call. We have the equipment – and now, the results to prove it.

Dia Dhuit (Jee-ah ghwitch) = Hello!

Dia duit, lasses and lads! The little ones are back in their classrooms, and that means backpacks full of mystery stains, lunchboxes that smell like a science experiment, and grass-stained knees from every recess. Sure, it happens to the best of us – no need to be scrubbing like a banshee over it!

- Grass stains: A wee bit of dish soap, a spoonful of white vinegar, and cold water. Dab it on, let it sit ten minutes, rinse. Cold water's the trick – hot sets the stain right in.
 - A spray and scrub with Blarney Buster will also do the trick right before running the garm through the wash.
- Backpacks & lunchboxes: A paste of baking soda and water lifts scuffs and odors a treat. Give it a go with an old toothbrush, let it dry, then brush it off.
 - Again, Blarney Buster would do the trick of degreasing. Just make sure to rinse with clean water before letting it dry.
- Marker or juice stains: A bit of rubbing alcohol on a cloth, dabbed – never rubbed – will lift most of it right up.
 - Kelly's Lucky Charm also works a treat!

If that doesn't do the trick, Kelly Tech Center carries everything a DIYer needs to keep the school year tidy. And if it's more than a backpack that needs rescuing, that's what we're here for. Sláinte!

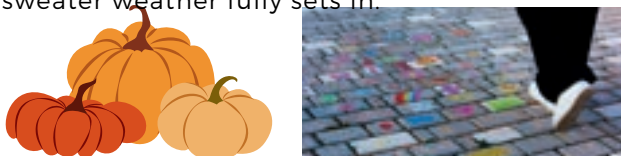

Fall is creeping in around the edges, and there's plenty happening across the county to get you out of the house before the holiday rush hits.

ArtWalk Ventura – Saturday, September 26 and Sunday, September 27, 10:00 AM – 5:00 PM, across Downtown Ventura and the Westside. This free, family-friendly weekend turns the whole district into an open gallery, with local artists, studios, and shops opening their doors. It's a great excuse for a slow Saturday stroll – grab a coffee, wander a few blocks, and see what Ventura's creative community has been working on.

Fall Harvest Festival at Underwood Family Farms – Opening Saturday, September 26 and running through October 31, 9:00 AM – 6:00 PM daily, at the Moorpark Farm Center (3370 Sunset Valley Road, Moorpark). Now in its 29th year, this is the pumpkin patch a lot of Ventura County families build their October around – a gigantic pick-your-own pumpkin patch, corn mazes, tractor wagon rides, animal shows, and themed weekends throughout. Weekday admission runs $16 at the gate; weekend pricing varies by themed event and online tickets are recommended, since walk-in weekend admission isn't guaranteed. Parking and kids under 2 are free.

Whichever one you make it to, it's shaping up to be a good month to get outside before sweater weather fully sets in.

Kelly Cleaning & Supplies is looking to add more technicians to our crew! We're especially glad to hear from candidates who are bilingual in English and Spanish (with strong English skills), hold a valid driver's license, and are able-bodied and ready for hands-on work. Experience is great, but honestly, what matters most to us is a willingness to learn and grow – we'll teach you the rest.

If that sounds like you, or someone you know, give us a call at (805) 644-5308 or stop by Kelly Tech Center at 2300 Knoll Dr., Ste. B, Ventura, to learn more about joining the team.
